For on a day he asked for the horse whereon the holy father, David, had been wont to ride for ecclesiastical purposes, and obtained leave. Isn't it more honest to conclude that all of life is created to adapt and change within an ever-changing universal reality, rather than change being somehow magically induced by random appearing, unguided, totally blind, purely by chance self-designing processes; as if energy, motion, light, intelligence, zillions upon zillions trillions of integrated parts working in tandem together, life itself and the rest of the "grand design" observable universal reality magically self-determined itself into existence? Undertake the desired journey. Learnhowyourcommentdataisprocessed. We Christians believe God is both outside and inside the universe: much as a mother is outside and ultimately separate from her child, and yet shares the genes within her child. Almighty God, be pleased to regard the sacrifices of praise and the devout prayers, which we offer to thee in honour of thy blessed confessor and pontiff, David ; and what our merit may not obtain, may thy mercy and his frequent intercession for us effect, through [thy Son. To say there is no God, probably no God or might be no God, is to claim the universe is either not created, probably not created or might not be created.
